Four Wounded
at Texarkana
Lake Clash

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Four persons suffered gunshot wounds Sunday when violence erupted as Negroes sought to integrate a beach at Lake Texarkana.

Officers arrested 23 Negroes on charges of inciting a riot and one was charged with assault to murder.

Sheriff Bill Dowd of Cass County said the swim-in was planned in Texarkana, Ark. All the Negroes were from Arkansas, most of them from the portion of Texarkana across the state line from Texas.

Sunday's violence erupted when the Negroes came out of the water among a group of whites at Lake Texarkana and began singing and clapping.

Earlier, the same group swam for about 15 minutes without incident at a children's camp in another part of the lake. White persons there left the beach.

One white man was wounded by a pistol shot and three Negroes suffered wounds from shotgun pellets. None was injured seriously.

"This was planned as a non-violent demonstration," Dowd said today. "But they recruited some pretty rough characters. They came looking for trouble and found it."

The sheriff said the demonstration was "conceived in Arkansas" and the group came to the lake in a caravan.

Dowd said if the Negroes had only wanted to swim they could have done so without incident at the children's camp.

Charged with assault to murder was Clifford Williams, 21, a Negro. Dowd said he is charged with shooting a white man.

Williams also was charged, along with the others, with inciting a riot. Five of those arrested were women.

The Negroes were held in jail in Linden unable to make the $1,000 bond each set by Judge Wayne Brown.

Candidate
Opens Area
Quarters

Dean Murphy

Dean Murphy, the Southwest Arkansas businessman who is seeking to unseat 24-year veteran Congressman Oren Harris of El Dorado, will have five area headquarters open Monday.

The headquarters at Hope has been in operation for some time, with the other four at El Dorado, Hot Springs, Pine Bluff and Texarkana.

Murphy, who lives at Hope, will officially open the El Dorado office from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Monday, then move on to Texarkana for the official opening there from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

Tuesday, he will officially open the Hot Springs office from 10 a.m. until noon. He will also attend the official opening of the Pine Bluff headquarters at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The 44-year-old Murphy has been campaigning actively throughout the 28-county Fourth Congressional District for several weeks.

Murphy's campaign manager, Raymond Stephenson of Monticello, said that county chairmen for all 28 counties would be announced soon.

Meet Gets a Little Warm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Arkansas political candidates criss-crossed the state Independence Day, canvassing votes at picnics and rallies, but they opened no major new issues and the campaigns remained mild.

The most peppery appearances were those of Rep. Oren Harris, D - Ark., and his opponent, Hope businessman Dean Murphy, at Nashville.

Murphy, 44, questioned the incumbent congressman's relationship to an El Dorado television station and said Harris used his influence to get a channel there. He said Harris had been among stockholders of the station.

Harris countered that he would not engage in name calling on the holiday, when people should be thankful for their freedom and prosperity.

Murphy also accused Harris of supporting Medicare, the plan for medical care of the aged through Social Security.

Harris replied, "If you can find evidence that I supported Medicare, I will get out of the race. If not, you get out."

The mildest appearances were those of Gov. Orval E. Faubus and his potential Republican opponent in the November general election, Winthrop Rockefeller, at picnics and rallies in northeast Arkansas.

Faubus opened his day with an early luncheon and rally at Trumann, where he said no federal official has contacted him about voluntary compliance in Arkansas with the new civil rights bill.

The remark came in reply to a question whether he had received a telegram from Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges asking for an appointment to discuss the matter.

Faubus said he didn't know what his reply would be if he did get a telegram from Hodges. The secretary has said he will tour southern states to confer with governors.

Rockefeller emphasized his activity during the day as "get acquainted" efforts, repeating earlier statements that he will reserve his big political guns until after the Democratic primary.

Hays Praises Civil Rights Measure

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Former Arkansas Congressman Brooks Hays said here Sunday night that he thinks the nation is on its way to racial peace.

Hays called the civil rights bill as a "magnificent piece of craftsmanship" and said the "right kind of bill" was produced through bipartisanship.

Hays said the dialogue produced by the U.S. Supreme Court school prayer decision "is a wholesome thing."

"We will come out of it with some good conclusions," he said.

Hays, a Southern Baptist layman, is a consultant to President Johnson.

Stockmen to Meet

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — The statewide field day of the Arkansas Cattlemen's association will be held at Winthrop Rockefeller Petit Jean Mountain ranch Tuesday. On tap for the day are a tour of the farm, a series of talks on various phases of the cattle industry, and a panel discussion by members.

Memorial Is Held in Honor of Mrs. King

On Saturday, July 4 a memorial service for Lucile Hart King was held at the Washington Presbyterian Church in the historical town of her birth. Before her death in May, Mrs. King and her husband, William R. King of Memphis, did much to restore historical landmarks in Washington.

James H. Pilkinton, President of the Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation, presided over the memorial service. After the invocation by the Rev. E. C. Porter, opening remarks were made by Mr. Pilkinton and David Pearson sang "Crossing the Bar."

Dr. William L. McLean, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Texarkana, Ark., read the scripture and gave the memorial address, "An Abiding Challenge." David Pearson sang "How Great Thou Art," and Dr. McLean offered the prayer of dedication and benediction.

Services were concluded at the grave with the laying of a wreath. A prayer was voiced by Dr. McLean, and Joe Keesey played "Taps."

Those attending the service were: Lloyd Spencer, George Peck, Mr. and Mrs. James Pilkinton, Mr. and Mrs. McRae Andrews, Mrs. Clyde Hill, Mrs. B. C. Hyatt, Mrs. Roland Pearson, David Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Springer, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Keesey, and Joe Keesey, Jr.

U.S. Economy

Although there was no particularly fiery talk hinting trouble ahead, the mere possibility of a strike and its effect on the economy could not be ignored.

The Iron Age, a national metalworking weekly, said any major auto work stoppage would sour hopes of the steel industry for a record year. Automakers are steel's second-best customer. Such an interruption also would quickly affect other supporting industries such as rubber, glass, plastics and paint.

Both UAW President Walter P. Reuther and auto industry spokesmen vowed to settle any differences by themselves.

Directly involved were wages of 575,000 UAW auto company employees. But roughly one million other union men in supplier and other auto-related firms were likely to be affected indirectly—and the whole economy, if the settlement proves inflationary.

One mildly disturbing development during the week was a Labor Department report that the nation's jobless rate, nudged higher by the June tide of students leaving school, climbed to 5.3 per cent.

Although total employment hit 71.9 million, an all-time high, the increase of 850,000 was about 400,000 less than expected. The unemployment increase was about 100,000 beyond expectations.

The steel industry, throttled down operations for a fifth week in a row, responding to seasonal influences. But the braking was so gentle and the rate of new ordering so strong that the steelmaking pace seemed likely to rebound unusually early from its low point.

Accordingly, buoyant steel stocks helped power the popular averages on the New York Stock Exchange to all-time highs in the holiday-shortened week.

The market was influenced by another glowing report of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., a company with 2.4 million shareholders. It once again reported record high quarterly earnings.

General Mills, Inc., with a fiscal total ending May 31, topping its 1959 peak in earnings, and lustrous profit reports came from other quarters.

The Commerce Department said total wholesale sales in May rose 3 per cent from the preceding month, 9 per cent from a year earlier, to a record $13.6 billion.

A Senate-House conference killed off brief hopes raised in the Senate of repeal of $509 million a year in excise taxes, mostly 10 per cent, on jewelry, luggage, cosmetics and furs.

Threats Bring Police Action

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Threats of citizens to form vigilante committees to catch bolsheroos teen-agers have prompted the City Council to beef up police patrols in this coastal community's beach area.

Police Chief Cliff Murray admits he has run into problems—one of which is youths using walkie-talkie radios to tip rowdy cohorts on approach of police patrols.

Phone Service Cut

JONSBORO, Ark. Pocahontas, Corning, Walnut Ridge, Imboden and the areas served from these towns were without service from mid-morning to mid-afternoon.

With former Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce scheduled for the spotlight in the opening platform hearings tonight, Goldwater strategists remained so confident of his convention strength they made no move to break apart the Ohio and Wisconsin favorite son delegations from which they might gain additional votes.

As matters stood, Goldwater had 710 publicly committed votes in The Associated Press survey, a comfortable margin over the 655 necessary for the nomination. Scranton had 146, plus the 105 in the name of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and 45 committed to Henry Cabot Lodge, now the Pennsylvania governor's personal campaign adviser.

There remained 186 uncommitted delegates and 113 tied up to favorite sons, a relatively limited field in which Scranton could prospect. Of Goldwater's 700-plus, only a relatively small number were firmly bound by primary or convention action, but the others showed no signs of deserting him.

There were reports Sunday that Gov. James A. Rhodes had released Ohio's 58 votes from their first-ballot commitment to him as a favorite son. These reports were followed by others that Rep. John W. Byrnes would turn loose the 30-vote Wisconsin delegation. Either of these moves would have been interpreted as a sign of panic on the part of Goldwater's managers. Both were promptly denied.

The Arizona senator's camp has claimed nothing in either state. But in each there are indications that he would get more than half of the votes if the delegates were freed of their favorite son commitments. Scranton, Lodge and Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the governor's newly named convention manager, made some noise about delegate gains but nothing tangible came out.

As Scranton and Lodge had done previously, Scott hinted that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower might give the Pennsylvania governor a lift at the convention. Eisenhower has signed up as a television commentator and most politicians think this will make it difficult for him to take sides even if he chooses to do so. Scott said it is his own judgment that Eisenhower's personal preference for the nom-

W. Memphis Knocks Out Texarkana

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — As a result of a recent census, West Memphis has knocked Texarkana out of the top ten cities in the state in population rankings.

According to a special census completed in May, West Memphis has a population of 22,303, surpassing Texarkana which has a population of 19,788.

West Memphis moved up from 11th place where it placed following the 1960 census with a population of 19,374. Texarkana has not had a special census taken since the 1960 census.

Russellville and Benton also changed positions as a result of special censuses.

Benton moved from 19th to 17th place where a special census this year showed its population had increased to 11,445 over the 1960 figure of 10,399.

Russellville moved from 24th to 20th after it's 1964 special census showed a population increase from 8,921 to 10,428.

A number of Arkansas cities have had special censuses taken because an increase in population means an increase in state turnback funds. Cities and towns get about $8 a year per person in turnback funds.

inee is Scranton but "whether he says so is his own business."

Scranton, in a joint news conference with Lodge in Harrisburg, Pa., said Eisenhower expressed surprise "that the people of America would question who he (Eisenhower) is for" for the nomination. He said he had phoned the former president to report on the progress of his drive for the nomination.

Scranton opened a last-ditch two-day campaign today in Illinois, building an appeal for support in the home state of Abraham Lincoln around the civil rights issue.

Goldwater, who has been unavailable to newsmen recently, eluded them Sunday when he took off from the Phoenix airport, dressed in his Air Force Reserve major general's uniform, in a private plane for Las Vegas, Nev. here he planned to pick up an Air Force jet to log some flight time to Washington. He will not head for San Francisco until Thursday.

Castro Bids for Easing of Blockade

NEW YORK (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Cuba would commit herself to withhold material support of Latin American revolutionaries if the United States and its allies would agree to "cease material support of subversive activity against Cuba," the New York Times said today.

A Havana story by Richard Eder quoted Castro as making the statement Saturday night. Castro made "the most emphatic bid he has made in recent years for easing relations with the United States," The story said.

Castro suggested that the time has come when an extensive discussion of issues between the two countries would be profitable. He said Cuba's leaders are now more mature and the United States has given some indications that it is willing to accept a degree of social change in Latin America.

Castro announced that, as "a contribution on our part to avoid incidents," the Cuban guards around the Guantanamo Naval Base would be pulled back to a distance of several hundred yards from the fence at the base.

Castro said the Cuban revolutionary government would give aries, when he learns who his November opponent will be. Rockefeller, Faubus, Dorey of Sheridan, and Joe Hubbard of Russellville Democratic opponents of the governor, made essentially the same speeches at all their stops. R. D. Burrow of Walnut Ridge, the only other gubernatorial hopeful, did not "stump" during the day.

Faubus reviewed accomplishments during his administration, took pot shots at crime rates in the North and plugged way to a constitutional one not later than Jan. 1, 1965.

Part of the 18-hour interview over a three-day period consisted of two extensive tours of farms and beaches around Havana.

Castro said that one result of normalizing relations with the United States would be the release of about 90 per cent of the political prisoners now held. He said these amount to "something under 15,000" and he conceded "this is a great many."

He said a later result would be discussions about indemnifying United States companies whose properties have been seized.

Castro hinted the Soviet Union has been suggesting improved relations with the United States.

Faubus said, "If I'm doing a good job, keep me. You don't fire a good employee simply because someone else wants his job."

Rockefeller said his work for the state with the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission and in other fields, demonstrated his affinity for Arkansas. He stressed freedom and patriotism and said he was opposed to anyone seeking a sixth term.

"Take the government out of politics and give it back to the people," he said.

Dorey took a similar stand. "I feel now is the time to return the state government to the rightful owners, you the people," he said.

He referred to Faubus' tenure as a machine and said some people may think it is impossible to beat it.

The machine is well oiled, but we can do it," he said.

Hubbard, Faubus and Rockefeller addressed crowds estimated at 5,000 persons at the annual Independence Day Picnic at Piggott.

Hubbard referred to what he termed cruel and inhuman punishment in the Arkansas penal system, plugged for protection of state employees from political pressures and said he wanted reapportionment of the state legislature so that each vote would carry the same weight. Rockefeller said polls he had

River Expenditure Mark Is Passed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Army Engineers, with more than $50 million worth of contracts in force, passed the one-third mark in expenditure for the Arkansas River navigation project June 30.

Engineers said $427 million has been spent on the $1.2 billion project, with $773 million remaining to be spent before completion of the work, possibly by 1971.

During the fiscal year ending June 30 Engineers let contracts totaling $50,043,200 — compared to the $50 million they had expected to let.

Engineers estimate another $10 million in contracts will be let during the next two months.

taken showed 28 per cent of the people of Arkansas have said that over a period of six years their votes have been influenced by fear.

Faubus denounced the visits of Northern civil rights workers to the South, reviewed his administration and told his audience, "I've tried to keep the faith with you, and we have done a great deal."

Dorey repeated his references to a political machine, saying, "I think we've got more than a good chance to upset the machine without going to New York to get a candidate." He did not mention Rockefeller, originally of New York, by name.

Ordinance Ruling Is Appealed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A chancery court order upholding a Pine Bluff ordinance which permits H. L. Jones to place advertising benches at bus stops in the city was appealed today by plaintiffs in a suit attacking the ordinance. Chancellor Lawrence Dawson held that the ordinance is valid.

The ordinance cleared the way for Jones to get a 10-year exclusive franchise for bus bench advertising.

City Manager Vote

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Pine Bluff residents will decide Tuesday whether they want to keep their present mayor-council or switch to the city manager type. And they will vote on a proposal to establish a public housing authority. Mayor Office Lites is among those spearheading a campaign to retain the mayor-council form of government.

Voluntary Aid

Washington AP — Fifty-five relief agencies last year distributed $363.5 million worth of aid in needy areas abroad, a government report states, including $161 million by Catholic Relief Services, $41.4 million by Church World Services (Protestant and Orthodox) and $30.2 million by American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee.

Things Civil Rights Law Applies to

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here in question-and-answer form is an explanation of how the new civil rights law applies to various businesses:

Q. What parts of the law have a direct effect on business establishments?

A. Two parts, one banning discrimination in places of public accommodation and the other in hiring, firing and other employment practices.

Q. What is meant by places of public accommodation?

A. Establishments offering food, lodging, and entertainment to the public. This includes restaurants, cafeterias, lunch-rooms, lunch counters, soda fountains, inns, hotels, motels, theaters, motion picture houses, conethalls, sports arenas, and other places of exhibition or entertainment.

Q. What about tourist homes?

A. If a tourist home or a rooming house is occupied by the owner is a residence and not more than five rooms are for rent, it is exempt from coverage.

Q. Does the ban on discrimination apply to gasoline stations?

A. Yes.

Q. What about a department store?

A. A department store is not specifically covered, but if it has any covered establishment within its premises — for example, if it has a restaurant or a lunch counter.

Q. Does this work the other way around so that a shop in a covered establishment is brought under the law?

A. Yes, beauty shops and barber shops are not specifically covered, for example, but they are if they are in a hotel.

Q. What kind of discrimination is prohibited?

A. The law provides that all persons shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges and advantages in places of public accommodation "without discrimination on the ground of race, color, religion, or national origin."

Q. What about a department store?

A. A department store is not specifically covered, but if it has any covered establishment within its premises — for example, if it has a restaurant or a lunch counter.

Q. Does this work the other way around so that a shop in a covered establishment is brought under the law?

A. Yes, beauty shops and barber shops are not specifically covered, for example, but they are if they are in a hotel.

Q. What kind of discrimination is prohibited?

A. The law provides that all persons shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges and advantages in places of public accommodation "without discrimination on the ground of race, color, religion, or national origin."

He made the remark with a twinkle and it reflected his present mood, which is mellow. Tracy has been known to get his Irish up. He is all smiles on the "Ship of Fools" set.

He looks great, belying all the fears for his health when he was stricken with a lung congestion last July and later had to withdraw from a role in "Cheyenne Autumn." His face is ruddy and his figure trim.

"Yeah, I've dropped 35 pounds," he said. "Now I can't understand how I was able to pack all that weight around. How did I get rid of it? Just by cutting down on the chow. And I've got some exercise every day. I've got a dog, and we go for long walks in the country."

Tracy has signed to return to his old home grounds at MGM for "The Cincinnati Kid" with Steve McQueen. "We'll begin in October—or whenever McQueen gets back from the motorcycle races," he said.

Tracy's health kick has not caused him to give up cigarettes. He doesn't drink any more.

"But," he added with a grin, "if I never touch another drop, I figure I'll still be ahead."

Ike's Brother to Nominate Scranton

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania announced today that Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president, will nominate Scranton at the Republican National Convention next week.

Scranton opened a news conference with this statement:

"I am delighted and pleased to announce that Dr. Milton Eisenhower will nominate me for president at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco. Gen. Eisenhower knows about this and is very pleased about it. The general said that was the best news he heard yet."

Scranton spoke with reporters early in a fast two-day appeal for Illinois support bill around the civil rights issue.

Scranton opened a last-ditch campaign in the home state of Abraham Lincoln. He sought to head off a first-ballot nomination of his rival, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona at the GOP convention.

Scranton's schedule today was turned over to old-fashioned political campaigning — hand-shaking and shopping-center rallies.

He has said his aim is to arouse the public of Illinois to such an extent they will, in turn, pressure the state's 58-vote convention delegation to turn away from Goldwater.

Last week the delegates indicated in a poll they would give 48 first-ballot votes to Goldwater. Eight delegates were uncommitted and two passed making a choice.

Civil rights was the keystone of the 46-year-old governor's campaign in Illinois because Goldwater voted against the civil rights bill signed into law by President Johnson last Thursday.

Scranton issued a civil rights "position paper" today, which again attacked Goldwater's position on the issue as "utterly incredible." He said the GOP is "committed to taking further steps at all levels of government" to end discrimination beyond the scope of the new civil rights law.

Scranton came to Chicago Sunday night after a weekend of strategy sessions at his home base in Harrisburg preparing for the final push for the nomination.

Opposition to Gambling Amendment

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Formal opposition to legalized gambling in Arkansas will develop here Tuesday when some 150 church leaders organize a new group, "Churches United Against Gambling."

The organization will fight passage of a proposed amendment to the state constitution, approving legalized gambling in Garland County.

Dr. William E. Brown, executive director of the Arkansas Christian Civic Foundation, said "More than 3,000 churches are represented in the organization, whose groups have committed themselves against the gambling issue."

He said funds will be sought through the churches to fight amendment.

About 80 chairmen have been working in all 75 counties of the state to build the organization, he said. Officers will be elected Tuesday.

Brown said the civic foundation heads, "is an educational organization and does not deal directly with legislation as such, so this group is being organized to deal with the program."

Part of the work of the organization, he said, will be to get people to the polls. "We believe there is enough opposition to this amendment to defeat it if the people will go to the polls," he said.

on his way to take over as U.S. ambassador in South Viet Nam, intends to look very hard at the sources of information.

It is known, too, that Taylor believes the views of all observers should be reflected in the reports to Washington. This would give Washington the benefit of varying viewpoints from both soldiers and civilians on the scene.

The four-star general, who retired as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to take over leadership of the entire U.S. effort in Viet Nam, expects to return to Washington about once every three months to report directly to President Johnson and other top policy makers.

But, it is known, he has no intention of looking over the shoulder of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander in South Viet Nam.

Taylor's job, as he sees it, is to pull together the entire U.S. civilian and military program into one effective package.

"DEAR ABBY"

DIFFERENT VIEWPOINTS!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: I think you are wrong to agree that a girl should baby-sit with her own brothers and sisters for nothing. Why should she pass up a chance to make herself $2 or $3 just to stay home and do the same for free? If parents can't afford to pay sitters they don't have any business having large families. I think it is terrible the way some parents make slaves out of their children. As for what children "owe their parents," I can't see where they owe them anything. Children don't ask to be born. You can use my letter if you want to, but please don't use my name.

"PAID"

Dear Abby: That greedy girl signed "UNPAID" should be ashamed of herself. I am not a girl. I am a 17-year-old boy, but I have been a sitter for my mother ever since I was 12 years old. I sat with three younger sisters and a baby brother six nights a week for four years while my mother worked. You see, Miss Abby, my father died and that was the only way Mom could manage. I wouldn't trade a bushelbasket full of dollars for the good feeling it gives me to know that I was able to help my Mom when she had it so rough.

THE MAN OF THE FAMILY

Dear Abby: We have a healthy able-bodied 17-year-old daughter. She baby-sits all over the neighborhood for 75 cents an hour, but when we need a baby-sitter we have to hire one, because she is booked up with paid sitting jobs. She doesn't need the money because we give her a very generous allowance, but she is money mad. We think it is good experience for young people to earn money, but wouldn't you think a high school senior would realize that money is not as important as volunteering an occasional helping hand at home?

Succession to Presidency Bill Pending

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My God, what is there in this place that a man should want to get into it? That was James A. Garfield's view shortly after becoming president. He didn't have to bear the burden long, just 199 days.

He took office March 4, 1881 and 83 years ago today, July 2, 1881, was shot in the back by an assassin. He lingered 80 days and died Sept. 19.

The question raised by his long illness—how does a vice-president take over from a disabled president and who determines disability?—has never been answered by act of Congress or constitutional amendment.

An attempt to answer it, and change the line of succession to the presidency, is pending in this Congress in the form of a constitutional amendment. Odds are Congress will quit for 1964 without acting.

Garfield was so plagued by people wanting government jobs that after two months in office he said: "It will cost me some struggle to keep from despising the office-seeker."

He was shot by a disgruntled office-seeker, Charles J. Guiteau, 39-year-old crooked lawyer and preacher who was 10 years younger than Garfield. But Guiteau had mixed motives. Like the President, he was a Republican.

Garfield was in a bruising Republican intra-party fight. On assassination day Guiteau wrote:

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 52 (Legislative)

That the following is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and upon being submitted to the electors of the State for approval or rejection at the next general election for Representatives and Senators, if a majority of the electors voting thereon, at such an election, adopt such amendment, the same shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas to wit:

SECTION 1. The General Assembly shall have the power to provide by general laws for the establishment and operation (a) of industrial districts; for the purpose of securing and developing industry, and (b) of hospital districts for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, reconstructing or extending hospitals. The land boundaries of the respective said districts shall be fixed in the manner provided by the General Assembly.

SECTION 2. The said districts shall have such powers pertaining to the respective purposes aforesaid and may exercise the same in such manner as shall be provided by the General Assembly, including without limitation power to issue bonds and to levy taxes upon the taxable real and personal property in said districts, upon approval thereof by a majority of the qualified electors of said district voting thereon at an election called for such purpose. Provided, however, there shall never be levied a tax on the taxable real and personal property; (a) of any industrial district which, together with any tax levied under the provisions of Amendment No. 49 to the Constitution, shall exceed five (5) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof; or (b) of any hospital district, which, together with any tax levied under the provisions of Amendment No. 17 to the Constitution, shall exceed five (5) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof, except that, the full said five (5) mills being levied under Amendment No. 17, the said hospital district may levy an additional tax of not to exceed one (1) mill on the dollar of the assessed valuation of the taxable real and personal property in said hospital district. Provided further, that the total taxes levied under this Amendment and under Amendment No. 49 to the Constitution on the taxable real and personal property in any industrial district shall never exceed five (5) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof, and the total taxes levied under this Amendment and under Amendment No. 17 to the Constitution on the taxable real and personal property in any hospital district shall never exceed six (6) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 53 (Legislative)

That the following is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and upon being submitted to the electors of the State for approval or rejection at the next general election for Representatives and Senators, if a majority of the electors voting thereon, at such an election, adopt such amendment, the same shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, to-wit:

"SECTION 1. The first unnumbered paragraph of Section 4 of Article 12 of the Constitution is hereby amended to read as follows: 'No municipal corporation shall be authorized to pass any laws contrary to the general laws of the State; and, except as otherwise specifically authorized by amendments to the Constitution, no municipal corporation shall be authorized to levy any tax on real or personal property to a greater extent, in one year, than one per cent of the assessed value of the same.'"

"SECTION 2. Section 9 of Article 16 of the Constitution is hereby amended to read as follows: 'Except as otherwise specifically authorized by amendments to the Constitution, no county shall levy any tax on real or personal property to a greater extent, in one year, than one per cent of the assessed value of the same; provided however, that not less than three-eighths of the amount of any such tax shall, as specified by the county tax levying authority, be used exclusively for the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of roads and bridges in the County Highway System.'"

"SECTION 3. Amendments No. 3, 22 and 27 to the Constitution are hereby repealed."

"SECTION 4. The provisions of this amendment shall take effect and be in full force on and after November 4, 1964."

a note saying his act was a "necessity to unite the party."

He sounded like a mental case. But after a 10½-week trial a jury ignored his insanity plea and convicted him. He was hanged June 30, 1882.

In his 80 days of dying Garfield performed only one official act: He signed extradition papers in a forgery case. Part of the time he was unconscious, Vice President Chester A. Arthur never took over until Garfield died.

Some Cabinet members had wanted him to but were deterred by fear that Garfield could never resume the presidency, if he recovered, once Arthur had acted as president. There was similar uncertainty and inaction in President Wilson's illness.

During Garfield's illness there was a foreign crisis. And the machinery of government began to creak. But those were horse-and-buggy days. The country was safe from instant disaster because it was remote from any major foe.

It could hope to survive longer without a man in the White House than in this time of intercontinental missiles when a split-second decision from a chief executive could mean the difference between survival and disaster.

In the 83 years since Garfield, Congress has still not tackled the disability problem. On this the Constitution has been unchanged from the beginning and has always been hazy.

If a president dies, resigns, or is unable to discharge the duties of his office, "The same shall devolve on the vice president. But it doesn't say who decides a president is too disabled to function."

Nor does it answer: If a vice president takes over the duties of a disabled president, can the latter resume office if he recovers? And who shall say he has recovered?

President Johnson, lacking clear-cut legal answer, has worked out an arrangement on this with House Speaker John McCormack, next in line to succeed him. Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy did the same with their vice presidents.

Congress has stepped in three times to meet another problem: Who succeeds to the presidency if the president dies and there is no vice president. Eight times in American history, when a president died, a vice president succeeded him, leaving the vice presidency empty. Congress passed these three laws:

1793—The Senate president pro tempore (a senator) and then the speaker of the House would be next in line of succession. 1836—The members of the Cabinet, starting with secretary of state. 1947—The speaker of the House and then the Senate president pro tempore. The 1947 act still stands.

The constitutional amendment now hung up in Congress would wipe out the 1947 act and provide for the two problems of succession and disability.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 54 (Legislative)

That the following is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and upon being submitted to the electors of the State for approval or rejection at the next general election for Representatives and Senators, if a majority of the electors voting thereon, at such an election, adopt such amendment, the same shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, to-wit:

"SECTION 1. The first unnumbered paragraph of Section 4 of Article 12 of the Constitution is hereby amended to read as follows: 'No municipal corporation shall be authorized to pass any laws contrary to the general laws of the State; and, except as otherwise specifically authorized by amendments to the Constitution, no municipal corporation shall be authorized to levy any tax on real or personal property to a greater extent, in one year, than one per cent of the assessed value of the same.'"

"SECTION 2. Section 9 of Article 16 of the Constitution is hereby amended to read as follows: 'Except as otherwise specifically authorized by amendments to the Constitution, no county shall levy any tax on real or personal property to a greater extent, in one year, than one per cent of the assessed value of the same; provided however, that not less than three-eighths of the amount of any such tax shall, as specified by the county tax levying authority, be used exclusively for the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of roads and bridges in the County Highway System.'"

"SECTION 3. Amendments No. 3, 22 and 27 to the Constitution are hereby repealed."

"SECTION 4. The provisions of this amendment shall take effect and be in full force on and after November 4, 1964."

Virgil Collins

Virgil Collins, 50, has been appointed Customer Relations Manager for Luke Johnson Ford, Inc., 615 Broadway.

"We have established this important department to create a better understanding of owners' problems and the action necessary to insure customer satisfaction with product, dealership, and service," said owner Luke Johnson.

Prior to his new position with Luke Johnson Ford, Collins was director of parts and services and has been with the dealership for 30 years.

"Virgil Collins has worked closely with the people in this progressive industrial East End of Houston and is very familiar with the customers' needs and problems," Johnson added.

Collins was born and raised in Hope, Arkansas. He graduated from Spring Hill High School, which is near Hope. He moved to Houston in 1933.

During World War II, Collins served in the U. S. Air Force from 1942 to 1946.

A member of the Park Place Methodist Church, Collins lives with his wife, Phyllis and daughter at 8133 Barkley Drive, Houston.

Too Busy as Garbage Man for Parties

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP) — James J. Fahey turns down invitations to literary teas on Beacon Hill and cocktail parties at Boston's Ritz because he's too busy at his job as a garbage man.

The invitations started to come in when Houghton Mifflin Co. published Fahey's "Pacific War Diary, 1942-1944," a year ago this month.

The invitations increased with news the fifth printing is nearly sold out and a sixth printing is planned.

Still, Fahey says "I'm not an author. I've been a garbage man for 14 years. I still drive a garbage truck and, I guess I always will until I retire with my civil service pension."

"I'm not a writer, never was, never will be. The book was a literary freak."

LBJ Cooking New Things for Congress

By KARL R. BAUMAN

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson is "highly pleased and gratified" at Congress' record, but he is cooking up new proposals he feels will move the country toward his concept of a "Great Society."

Johnson believes enactment of the sweeping civil rights law has cleared the way for tackling such problems as metropolitan area growth; the growth of interlocking federal, state and local responsibilities; and finances; health; education; and gearing the governmental structure to an age of science and technology.

White House sources relayed Johnson's views to newsmen covering his holiday stay here and said the chief executive already has a number of task forces at work on long-term planning.

Until the various studies are finished, the President is not about to put a price tag on the proposals that ultimately may be submitted to Congress for new legislation.

Johnson has been trying to project the image of an economy-minded administration. But he is represented as feeling that while the people want sound and prudent fiscal management, they also want the government to respond with compassion to human needs.

The President has not ruled out the possibility of further civil rights legislation, but no determination can be made, he feels, until the effects of the bill he signed last Thursday are assessed.

In the foreign field, Johnson is claiming to be well satisfied about the transition of new American leadership in South Vietnam, his conferences with Greek and Turkish leaders on the critical Cyprus problem and his first meeting with a Latin American chief of state, President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica.

Indonesia's Future Brings on Concern

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Where is Indonesia going? The question is of concern to Washington and Moscow, London and Peking.

If you ask an Indonesian—the reply is apt to be something like this:

"We are a young country—give us time."

Vastly rich in resources and with 103 million people scattered over 3,000 islands, Indonesia long has been regarded as a pivot to the future in this part of the world.

With the end of World War II, Indonesia began a struggle against centuries of Dutch rule and won its independence in 1949.

Today widespread poverty is common in the midst of natural riches.

"You must remember," says an American resident, "that for years upon years the wealth of this country was drained off to serve 400 families in Holland. They have made accomplishments here in little more than 14 years. It will take time, but Indonesia must be given time."

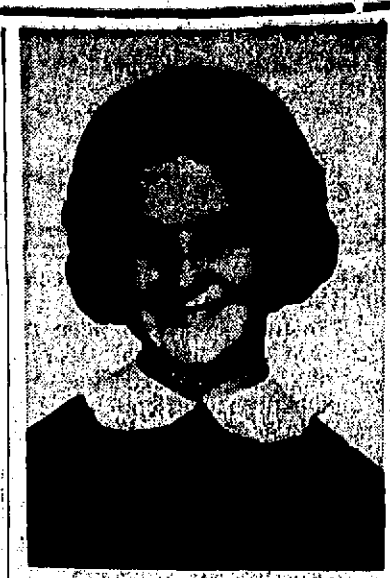

Others disagree. They say there must be drastic changes, that patience and more time will continue a slide toward complete economic ruin.

Despite government restrictions and bureaucratic shackles, foreign firms are drawn to the wealth of Indonesia — oil, rubber, tin and minerals.

The Dutch are coming back. The British, most recent targets because of the anti-Malaysia campaign, are trying to hang on. Americans are here,

White House — it is not known when the President will end his Texas holiday — Johnson intends to talk with both outside experts and heads of various government departments and agencies about long-term planning in the various domestic fields which he feels need attention.

along with Germans—East and West, Communist Chinese, Australians, Indians and Japanese.

Near the luxurious Hotel Indonesia, the Japanese, West Germans and Australians are building new embassies, indicating they intend to be around for a while. The sites are only a few blocks from the shell of the British Embassy, burned by rioters last September in an anti-Malaysia frenzy.

In the city of Jakarta, a few television antennas sprout from the sharply sloping red tile roofs. There is one channel, a government station that broadcasts two or three hours at night.

Most Indonesians tell you that where their country is going is nobody's business but Indonesia's. Displaying a fervent brand of nationalism, they emphasize that it definitely is not the concern of Western powers.

The United States, Britain and most of the countries of the West are, in Indonesian terms, old established forces in conflict with the new emerging forces. The new emerging forces, in Indonesian terms, include the Soviet Union, Communist China, countries of the African-Asian bloc, the Middle East and Latin America. Indonesia pictures itself as a leader among these countries.

President Sukarno, who has almost unrestricted powers, has launched Indonesia on the path of so-called guided democracy. He has so far successfully maintained a precarious power balance between the military and the Communists, the country's two centers of organized strength. Backing first one, then the other, Sukarno has made himself leader in fact as well as title.

So far, Sukarno has been able to extend his internal balancing act to Indonesia's role in the East-West cold war. He has been courted by both sides, taken aid from both, and threatened to swing about dramatically if pushed too hard.

Whether Indonesia approves or not, its future course is of concern in the seats of world power. Recent development in other parts of Southeast Asia—and in Washington and Peking—overshadow the whole area.

Indonesia may find itself caught up in events that could upset the balance of even the most agile.

Baseball All Star Game Set for Tuesday

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National League leads the American League 2-0 in rested pitchers going into Tuesday's All-Star Game.

Of the 15 hand-picked pitchers for the All-Star classic, 13 saw action during the weekend, leaving the National League with a distinct advantage in its bid to even the over-all series between the leagues at 17 victories each.

Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers, manager of the National League team, had Don Drysdale of the Dodgers and Philadelphia's Chris Short sufficiently rested.

But Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, the American League skipper, had a cupboard like Mother Hubbard's. It was suggested that Lopez line his pitchers up and call for volunteers to take one step forward. The starting assignment was to go to the last man stepping backward.

In the absence of such a maneuver, Lopez was expected to tap Minnesota right-hander Camilo Pascual for the opening spot on the mound while Alston was expected to nominate Drysdale, also a right-hander, since both line-ups are stacked with right-handed hitters.

Some 40,000 tickets have been sold for the 35th All-Star Game, to be held for the first time at the new, 55,000-seat Shea Stadium. The game at noon, EST, will be televised nationally.

Two American League stars already have been declared out of the game, and there is a strong possibility that quite a few of the outstanding pitchers in the majors will spend the day in the bullpen.

Reserve outfielder Al Kaline of Detroit was ruled out when the Tigers notified the American League that he had suffered a severely bruised left ankle in Saturday's game. Rocky Colavito of Kansas City will replace him. Earlier, Boston shortstop Eddie Bressoud replaced Baltimore's Luis Aparicio, who is nursing a pulled groin muscle.

The pitching situation has been the same story for many years, prompting Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Mets who will be one of the National League's coaches, to suggest that baseball pass a rule prohibiting use of All-Star pitchers the Sunday before the game.

A Drysdale-Pascual duel would match two pitchers with 0-1 All-Star records. Drysdale, 11-7 during the regular season, has been effective in All-Star action despite his record, allowing only six hits with a 2.45 earned run average in four games. Pascual has allowed four hits in six All-Star innings with a 3.00 ERA.

The result of the game, however, may rest with the sluggers. The American League lineup includes Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Tony Oliva of the Twins and Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees. The National League muscle men will be led by Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs.

Men Golfers to Meet on Thursday

The Men's Golf Association will hold its regular monthly meeting, Thursday, July 9, at 6 p.m. Please make reservations for dinner with Mary Creasy no later than Tuesday, July 7.

A golf clinic will be given by Pro Ed Creasy, Sr. Winners by flights in the July 4 four ball tourney.

Championship Flight, Henry Penick and Russell Carver, 69; 1st flight, Charles Carver and Jack Gardner, 69; Second flight, J. B. Powell and Robert LaGrone, 77; 3rd flight, Ed Whitman and W. H. Gunter, 83; 4th flight, Lester Godwin and Bill Morris, 87.

Other NL games: St. Louis topped Cincinnati 3-1; Milwaukee whacked Chicago 7-1; Los Angeles blanked New York 5-0 and Pittsburgh smacked Houston 7-1.

In the American League, Minnesota clouted New York 9-2; Kansas City defeated Baltimore 3-1; Boston tagged Los Angeles 9-6; Chicago swept Cleveland 2-0 and 5-0, and Detroit defeated Washington twice, 7-6 and 3-0.

Sandy Koufax won his eighth straight and 12th of the season, as the Dodgers moved into a fiveplace tie with St. Louis. Koufax, who has allowed only six runs in 69 innings during the streak, got batting support from Willie Davis who drove in three runs with a homer and a double.

Seventh inning singles by Bob Skinner and Tim McCarver broke a 1-1 tie and gave the Cardinals their victory.

Roger Craig, who allowed 10 hits, went the distance for his fifth victory against four losses. Joey Jay, 4-5, pitched a six-hitter but lost.

Wade Blasingame won his first major league game, hurling an eight-hitter against the Cubs. Mike de la Hoz hammered his first NL homer and Joe Torre clubbed a pair of doubles as the Braves routed All-Star pitcher Dick Ellsworth.

Jerry Lynch clouted his 18th career pinch homer to start the Pirates' late surge and Manny Mota smashed a three-run shot to end it. In between Pittsburgh tagged Dick Farrell and Hal Woodeshick for all their runs.

Farrell, trying for the fifth time to win his 11th game, had a four-hitter for seven innings before Lynch's two-run shot put the Pirates in front in the eighth. Pittsburgh scored five more in the ninth.

Georgia Has Many New Prison Laws

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A reporter once found scrawled on a dirty Georgia prison wall the words "Thay is no God."

This melancholy legend is no tally by guards — even imprisoned symbol of the state's prison system.

Chain gangs, leg irons, sweat-box cages, whippings and brutality by guards — even imprisonment for being unable to pay small fines — are no more.

Now, under a new literacy program in the state's prisons, the inmate who wrote the said words on his cell might have learned to spell correctly.

Gen. James Edward Oglethorpe, the founder and first governor of the Colony of Georgia thought of filling his new colony with imprisoned debtors from England. He later abandoned the idea. Only a few debtors were among Georgia's original colonists.

By an ironic fate, Georgia — more than 200 years later — has its own imprisoned debtors, victims of a system which only now is being changed.

The Georgia Legislature this year passed a sweeping package of prison reform laws which put an end to what, in effect, has been imprisonment for debt.

The new laws opened the doors of the state prison system to almost 400 prisoners, the vanguard of several hundred more to be released soon.

More than 40 per cent of the state's prisoners have been serving misdemeanor sentences simply because they could not pay a fine, occasionally as small as $10.

Convicts in black and white striped suits and bound together by chains that clanked as they worked on Georgia roadsides were common sights in the 1930s.

Robert Elliott Burns wrote a book in 1931 in which he described vicious conditions in the state's prisons.

Official Georgia, including the governor at the time, Eugene Talmadge, branded Burns' story as untrue. But in 1937, Gov. E. D. Rivers ordered chain gangs abolished.

Gov. Ellis Arnall, six years later, described still brutal conditions in the state's prisons and instituted additional reforms. At his request, the legislature outlawed the use of leg irons, chains and manacles, did away with the striped uniforms, and established the Board of Corrections. Arnall told guards that use of the whip would mean instant dismissal.

After that, Georgians generally settled back with little thought of prisons or of prison reforms.

They were shaken somewhat, however, and the nation was shocked in 1951 when 40 prisoners at the rock quarry prison for incorrigibles at Buford ate Christmas dinner — then slashed their heel tendons with razor blades. The prisoners complained of hard grueling overwork. The foment again quieted.

Five years later, Buford was again in the headlines. Forty-one convicts this time smashed their legs with 20-pound sledges. They said brutality by guards and cruel labor drove them to the act.

Another legislative investigation committee drew up additional reports — and a few more reforms were passed. And once again there was a respite from prison controversy.

Phillies Shake Giants Right Out of First

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Whoosh!

The gusty wind that shook San Francisco over the weekend wasn't one of Candlestick Park's ordinary breezes. It was created by Gene Mauch's All-Starless Philadelphia Phillies, who blew right past the Giants into first place in the National League.

The Phillies, who failed to place a man higher than third in the voting for the NL All-Star team, looked like first stringers Sunday as they completed a three-game sweep of the Giants with a 2-1 victory.

There was Richie Allen, whose five hits had sparked the first two victories Friday and Saturday, making two putouts on one play as some loose base running broke the back of a Giant rally in the seventh inning.

There was Jack Baldschun, Jack Baldschun, completed his second save of the big series and ninth of the season by striking out Willie Mays with the tying run on base in the eighth. He also set the Giants down in order in the ninth, fanning four of the six batters he faced.

The clutch play of Sunday's game came in the seventh with Dennis Bennett nursing a 2-1 Phillie lead after Jim Hart's leadoff homer. Bennett struck out Orlando Cepeda but the slugger reached first when the third strike got away. Jesus Alou, followed with a single, moving Cepeda to third.

When Del Crandall bounced to Allen, the rookie third baseman caught Cepeda in a rundown and eventually tagged him out. Crandall dashed for second and Alou went to third while the Phillies were chasing Cepeda.

Allen, attempting to get Crandall, fired to second and Alou suddenly broke toward the plate. The Giant rookie was caught in a rundown and eventually tagged out by Allen, completing a double play.

In other NL games, St. Louis topped Cincinnati 3-1; Milwaukee whacked Chicago 7-1; Los Angeles blanked New York 5-0 and Pittsburgh smacked Houston 7-1.

Warns Rights Bill Is No Magic Carpet

By LEO MARKS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The civil rights bill, signed on the opening day of the 22nd annual convention of the Congress of Racial Equality, "is no magic carpet that's going to take us to the promised land," the 700 CORE delegates were told by their national director, James Farmer.

"We have a responsibility now to test this bill in every place of public accommodation, North and South," he said in a keynote address Thursday night. "Voluntary integration has not worked in this country, and this state and every state must be prepared to enforce its laws if that voluntary integration is not forthcoming."

Farmer and CORE national chairman, Floyd B. McKissick, called on the delegates, representing 114 chapters with 75,000 members, to work out a broad program of quick tests of the new bill in employment, housing and education.

An impromptu test came within minutes of its signing, less than a block away from the convention auditorium and shortly before it convened.

One of the CORE delegates, Gene Young, 13, from Jackson, Miss., walked into the convention headquarters hotel barber shop and was refused a haircut.

A score of polite but persistent CORE demonstrators almost immediately converged on the barber shop and staged a sit-in until McKissick emerged to announce: "The hotel management is seeking to have the barbers union get every barber who will cut everybody's hair

China Is Reworking Its Strategy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent Communist China appears to be reworking its strategy in Asia.

Peking is cut off from insurance of Soviet military protection. It is denied economic cooperation by most of the Communist bloc. Now it seems to be getting ready for a retreat to prepared diplomatic positions.

It would be no surprise if Red China sought talks with the United States looking toward at least temporary removal of the fuse from the Asian bomb.

Straws in the wind hint that a careful, gradual Red Chinese about-face is coming, despite all the recent talk from Peking about dangers of war in the Laos and Viet Nam situations.

If victory for communism in Laos and Viet Nam had looked easy, if there had been a definite vacuum to be occupied, the Red Chinese could have been expected to act aggressively.

But it was another matter when the Chinese found their toughness countered with American toughness, when President Johnson warned that the United States was willing to risk war to protect Southeast Asia.

It is doubtful that many in Washington believed Mao Tse-tung's regime wanted to go to war with the United States over down here tomorrow."

"The next thing that we are going to do is to be down here tomorrow morning just to be sure" McKissick said.

THE FERRIS WHEEL

By Ruth Engelken

Noticing the fear in Mary Edna's young eyes as she looked up at the huge Ferris wheel her minister father saw an opportunity for a practical application of last week's Sunday School lesson on faith. "Would you like to ride on it?" Dr. Monroe asked.

The child shook her blonde pigtail. "I'm afraid."

"Afraid of what? Why, when I was your age my brother and I would ride it again and again. Once I remember we ate our lunch on it, and we felt like kings surveying the world below."

She looked up at the wheel, then back at her father.

Her head nodded, but her eyes questioned. "It's so big," she gasped.

"Isn't God bigger? Didn't the lesson Sunday say that faith overcomes fear? This is a wonderful way to prove it."

He stepped to the ticket window and asked for a strip. Mary Edna stood at his side and twisted her face and dress.

When he hooked the handgrip over the seat, the girl crouched close to him. As the car started up, she exclaimed, "There's nothing under me!" "God is under you, and over you, and around you. Remember that. Close your eyes and say a little prayer."

When they stopped at the very top, she opened her eyes and looked to the right, to the left, and then down below. Dr. Monroe, mimicking her movements, shut his eyelids abruptly. Twenty-five years was a long time since his last ride, and the height and circling motion were making him dizzy.

"It worked," Mary Edna squealed delightedly as the car started up. Her mouth resembled a grinning Halloween pumpkin. "I'm not afraid anymore, Daddy, I'm not afraid."

Her father made some sound through tense lips and clutched the handlebar tighter.

When they stopped on the top again, she leaned way over. "Look at the tiny people down there. They look like little ants." Daddy kept his eyes straight forward, his head rigid. "Whee—!" she yelled, making a swing of the cart.

"Don't!" father screamed. Startled, she took in his clenched teeth, the extended veins in his neck, and the perspiration on his forehead.

"Daddy," she whispered, "are you afraid?"

Dr. Monroe did not answer the child, but kept his eyes tightly shut, praying for the ride to end. Mary Edna sat motionless and silent while deep thought played on her pixie face.

At last as they stepped from the car, she asked, "Daddy, do you have faith?"

"Indeed, I do," he said, dabbing a handkerchief at his damp brow.

"Then take me on again," she said. Her challenging eyes looked strangely cold.

"Mary Edna," he replied, steadying himself against the park bench, "you've got to understand that there are different kinds of faith in this world. My kind works best on the ground."

Not Lincoln's Phrase

Although the phrase "government of the people, by the people and for the people" was immortalized in the Gettysburg Address, President Lincoln did not originate it. He quoted the phrase used earlier by Daniel Webster.

Thought His Models Would Bare All

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—After Rudi Gernreich's remarks favoring the birthday suit for swimming, decaying Victorian prudishness, predicting a more honest morality for the new generation and admitting weariness over the whole stir created by his topless bathing suit, everyone thought his models would bare nearly all.

Instead they emerged as covered up as Egyptian mummies — helmeted, veiled, wrapped, stockinged and booted with only a few nude noses and finger tips.

The real shock treatment, discovered fashion reporters here to preview the American designers series of fall styles, are the broad stripes combined with black stockings and shoes, the electric polka dots on dark backgrounds or the stark white makeup on the models.

But Rudi styles immodest? Well — meaning old ladies who have written him in protest to the 1,000 topless bathing suits currently in circulation should see his girls in their black knee bloomers, black stockings, or shades of the Civil War pantaloons—knee pants under dresses.

Sure, the dresses are short, a few just managed to cover the thighs. But what grandmother could complain with all that leg covering plus tight suede zippered boots up to the knees?

The yashmak hat — a down-over-the-mouth helmet with a slit in it to avoid the need for a guide dog — is what Rudi calls his hat for the new, non-smoker. With dressier dresses, his models hide under floppy veils.

Let anyone conclude that he has reverted to an old-fashioned tuddy — duddy, Rudi sent one brave model onto the runway in that now famous bra evening dress designed to cover the cleavage. It lets the sides fall where they may.

"But where is the topless bathing suit?" asked photographers with cameras aimed.

"It's never been modeled publicly," retorted Rudi virtuously. "At least not by me."

There are people who hate television and then there are those who find the shows a good cure for insomnia.—Wichita Eagle

Mary Nell Turner's Entries in Star's $100 Vacation Photo Contest; Ends Labor Day

THESE TWO 'TEEN-AGERS, ELLEN AND SUSAN Turner, watch for Missouri Pacific's No. 8 which will take them to Memphis on their first train ride. Only a movie camera, plus sound, could have recorded their excitement. Cars may be convenient, but there's nothing like a train! The girls' mother, Mrs. Mary Nell Turner (Mrs. McDowell Turner) of Hope, entered this and the two adjoining photos in Hope Star's $100 Vacation Picture Contest.

In Defense of Westerns on Television

TV-RADIO EDITORS NOTE—Television westerns, eternally popular, are also eternally the favorite targets of the "sex and violence" critics. Here Hollywood actor Robert Fuller, now of ABC's "Wagon Train" and once a movie stuntman, defends his favorite form of entertainment—and area of show business—in "an open letter to my son."

By ROBERT FULLER
For Cynthia Lowry

Dear Bob,
You've got a shotgun, a .30-30 rifle, a .22 rifle, a rod and reel, two complete cowboy outfits from hat to spurs, a quail call, a duck call, and a pair of boxing gloves. These are presents from some of your older friends. They want to make sure your life is full of hunting and fishing and riding. I do, too.

Someday you might want to make your living by acting, but still get in plenty of the outdoor life. In that case, here's some advice for you. I'm giving it to you now, when you're still too young to argue.

Son, don't hang around actors. You'll find yourself acting all day and talking about it all night. That makes for dull talk and a dull life.

If you can, start your career in Westerns. Then do everything you can to stay in Westerns. There's a good reason for this: You'll have more fun.

You'll be working with stuntmen, and wranglers, and the fellows who spring into action when the sheriff calls for a posse. Salty and go-forth guys who think the method has something to do with the right way to get on a horse. These fellows get around to the best places; they know where the quail are hiding and the fish are biting. If you don't act like an anti-theater might take you along. Deserts, forests, mountains will work on you, helping prevent such afflictions as swollen ego and the shortsightedness that mistakes a sound stage for the world.

And son, if you're an actor, remember who you're working for. Not the front office, or the critics, or other actors, or your "art." Above all, not that vague meaningless thing called "the public."

You're working for the individual human being — the mechanic in Wichita, the farm woman in Georgia, the kid in Tallahassee or Tokyo who lunks down money at the box office or twirls the TV dial to see a good show.

They're not only your real bosses, they're your best friends. Treat them that way. If they want you to stand in the hot sun all afternoon signing

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When you are cold in this town, nothing can be colder. But when you are hot—it is something quite marvelous."

Keefe Brasselle was speaking and he has known both temperature extremes.

Hollywood remembers him from 15 years ago as a young actor with plenty of both syllables of his last name. Sell he did, and he enjoyed a brisk career as a youthful leading man. And then he made "The Eddie Cantor Story" in which the critics found little whoopee.

"It got the most tremendous bad reviews of any picture in years," he recalled, "and I suddenly was cold as anybody could get. Nobody called me on the telephone, but nobody."

"Actually, the picture wasn't that bad. In fact, it has been on television and I have been somewhat vindicated. But it suffered at the time from having to follow 'The Jolson Story'."

Brasselle sought relief by playing Las Vegas, and the desert dates warmed his bankroll enough to permit the purchase of an office building in Beverly Hills. But the movie offers dwindled to nothing, so he hustled to New York.

How did all this happen?

"It was simple," he explained. "CBS was hot on signing big-name writers to develop series, but they couldn't get Jerome Weidman to consider it. When I heard about it, I asked if I could have my own production company if I could sign Weidman. The answer was yes, so I simply asked him. I've known Jerry for 18 years — he wrote 'The Eddie Cantor Story'."

Weidman signed as chief writer and consultant for "Reporter," a New York newspaper series. Brasselle sold the two comedies and already has a deal to develop two more series for 1965-66. With series shooting on both coasts, he doesn't have time to cool off. And that's just the way he likes it.

autographs, you do it—and be grateful. If I ever hear of you mulling about "invasion of privacy" or refusing to sign an autograph, I'll come down out of the mountains, or out of the Old Actor's Home, and whale the tar out of you. For your own good, you understand.

Now, I realize all this advice may be a little premature. After all, you're only nine weeks old.

Maybe the person I'm really sounding off to is me.

Wallace Coming to State July 14

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will begin his campaign for president in Arkansas with a speech here July 14.

Amis Guthridge, president of the Capital Citizens Council announced that Wallace would speak at a council-sponsored rally.

An aide to Wallace said in Montgomery: "I think you can say it's in connection with the governor's campaign for the presidency."

Wallace must get petitions with more than 46,000 signatures from qualified Arkansas voters to get his name on the November ballot.

He wants Arkansas' electors pledged to either the Democratic, Republican or National States Rights parties. Wallace says this will give the South more influence and put it in a

Interstate Bids to Be Taken

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Highway Commission will open bids July 22 on an estimated $4.75 million in work on Interstate 40.

One of the six highway projects is for 7.88 miles of surfacing from near Big Pine Creek east to Mill Creek near Russellville. Another surfacing bid is for 7.9 miles east from Mill Creek and a third is for 5.3 miles of paving southeast from Mayflower.

The commission will also open bids on signs on 21.08 miles of Interstate 40 east from the North Terminal Interchange at Little Rock to Arkansas 31 near Leno.

Television and Radio

EDITOR'S NOTE — Television's "Dr. Kildare," Richard Chamberlain, writes as a guest for Cynthia Lowry who is on vacation.

By RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One hundred down and 34 to go—for this season.

When Raymond Massey and I recently cut a "birthday" cake marking the completion of our 100th show for "Dr. Kildare," that was our main feeling. But the thoughts that went through my mind were many and varied.

I've often been asked if I were not bored with the interminable dialogue with those tongue-twisting medical terms; frustrated with having my leading ladies die in the closing moments.

I've even been misinterpreted when I said I wouldn't do another television series. It looked in print as though I were fed up with "Dr. Kildare," and ready to call it quits at the drop of a suture.

Another series after Kildare? No, because, after Kildare there are many other things I hope to do. But, boredom? No, I'm grateful to say that hasn't set in. And I don't expect it will.

In the first place, who has time to become bored? Not with 33 or 34 television shows a year, roughly the equivalent of 20 full-length motion pictures.

There is no substitute for experience, and that I'm certainly getting — and I'm still learning from Kildare.

One scarcely could work with Raymond Massey and not learn daily something about his craft. Nor with such guest stars as Cyril Ritchard, Walter Pidgeon or Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

There are plans for the season ahead that help alleviate any tendency toward boredom. This year for instance, we'll do our first three-part story, with an Italian background when Dr. Gillespie takes Kildare with him to Rome.

My own thoughts as we start a new season cannot help but include my own ambitions beyond "Dr. Kildare." I hope for a wider range of roles: to do more feature motion pictures, and — when time allows — to gain the experience an actor can find only in front of live audiences on the stage. Music, especially musical theater, always has been an objective although my full concentration now is on drama except for singing on an occasional record.

I feel that Kildare is continuing to bring these goals within my reach.

Besides, nobody gets bored in a hospital — except the patients.

'After the Fall' Rights Purchased

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — MGM has purchased rights to the Arthur Miller play "After the Fall" and will film it in New York and Europe next summer with Sophia Loren and Paul Newman.

He Was Robbed by U.S. Agents

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "They are robbing me," a service station man telephoned police urgently.

The dispatcher taking the call asked "with a knife or gun?" "They're pushing me against the wall. They're taking all of my money," the man shrieked.

The first policeman at the scene found agents of the Internal Revenue Service in the process of confiscating the man's books.

1907 Auto, Aged Driver Still Going

By BILL STALL

RENO, Nev. (AP) — George Schuster doesn't drive anymore because, at 91, his eyes aren't so sharp. But Schuster grinned and gripped the wheel firmly as he steered the old Thomas Flyer on a little spin down a back road near Reno recently.

"It runs perfect," Schuster beamed later. "It still will go 55 miles an hour."

The four-cylinder, 60-horsepower auto was built in 1907 and was driven, coaxed, pulled and pushed virtually around the world by Schuster and his E. R. Thomas Auto Co. teammates in 1908.

The Flyer, with 35-year-old Schuster at the helm, rolled into Paris July 30 that year after a punishing 13,000-mile trip to win the New York-Paris auto race sponsored by the New York Times and the Paris Matin.

Schuster chuckles as he recalls shoveling through snowdrifts across the United States, hitchhiking a steamer ride to Alaska and back, chugging past amazed Japanese and searching for a new transmission somewhere in Russia.

Schuster was a test driver for the Thomas company of Buffalo, N.Y., in 1908 when he was charged to chat with Montague Roberts, a Thomas official in New York City.

"He asked me if I would go on the New York-Paris car with him as mechanic."

They left New York City on Feb. 12.

Roberts left the Thomas in Cheyenne, Wyo., to meet racing commitments in the East. Linn Mathewson, the Thomas dealer in Denver, Colo., took the wheel. Schuster became driver and team captain in San Francisco. He's the only survivor of the team.

The designated route was by steamship to Valdez, Alaska, for an ice crossing of the Bering Strait to Siberia. That's why the race started in winter. But the route was changed to a sea crossing to Japan.

Schuster and his crew of two drove through Japan, crossed to Vladivostok, and headed out across Russia May 22.

The transmission finally gave out in Russia. Schuster tracked down one sent to him the other way around the world from Buffalo.

The German Protos auto piloted by Lt. Hans Koeppen, only one of the other five cars which started, pulled into Paris five days ahead of Schuster. The Thomas was declared the winner on the basis of elapsed time.

The battered old auto looked as if it was only a step away from the junkyard. Schuster says, until Bill Harrah, Reno auto collector, bought the Flyer last summer.

Schuster came to Reno. Patchwork repairs Schuster made on the trip had been replaced and reinforced, apparently at the Thomas factory before the car was used as the pathfinder for a New York-Seattle race.

WINTHROP, Wash. (AP) — This case of mistaken identity had a certain air about it.

John Dabritz was missing one of his pet deodorized skunks. He thought he spotted the animal in a pit near a neighbor's house. Dabritz hopped into the hole to pick up the little rascal and hopped back out in a hurry. Wrong skunk.
